Mrs. H. E. Shephard and daughter, Elizabeth, and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Montgomery over the week-end with Mrs. Heflinger.

Mr. Thomas Mullen made a trip to town on Saturday evening. Summer appears to be just around the corner, with the dry land and crows appearing.

Last Saturday night several friends called at the home of Mrs. H. E. Shephard and daughter, Elizabeth, and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Montgomery over the week-end with Mrs. Heflinger.

The huge wind of last fall did considerable damage to all fences in the community. Nearly everybody is compelled to do considerable fencing this spring.

The last fall of snow was very wet and comparatively all of it has come down the ground, also where the ridge drifts are melting, sloughs are forming. With the seedling time so close we are trying to console ourselves with the prospect of a fine crop. This Alberta optimism is a fine thing to possess.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hall were dinner guests at the home of E. W. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullen spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Edna Hargrove.

"Silent Barriers" is Splendid Canadian Film

"Silent Barriers," the film epic of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which had its Empire premiere under the patronage of Her Majesty Queen Mary, and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, in London recently, and its Canadian premiere in Montreal, and which depicts one of the most important chapters in the history of the British Commonwealth of Nations, will be shown in theatres from coast to coast during the current month. The story, based on Alan Ball's book "The Great Divide," brings back and visualizes the heroic struggle with nature waged by the giants of pioneer railroading in this country, and particularly in the seemingly impossible task of thrusting the road through the Rocky Mountain barrier. The story has a tremendous Canadian historical value, as well as being first rate entertainment. The film, a Gaumont British production, was made at Revelstoke, B.C., and includes such great stars as Richard Arlen, Barry St. John, Anthony Collier, Lilli Palmer, and J. Farrell MacDonald. In it the men who were not acknowledged defeat assign play their parts. The lay-out, shows a re-mas-

SPRING - AND WHAT!

It has been a long, hard winter, particularly on the coalbin, even though this must have been highly satisfactory to the coal dealers of the Province.

Now that Spring is here, (we were almost tempted to say "definitely") it will be appropriate to turn to one of the main-Spring and Summer pastimes of Albertans generally, namely weather forecasting.

From now on the amateur weather prophet will be in his glory. Prognostications of wet or dry seasons will impregnate the atmosphere. Clouds will be inspected microscopically for indications of rain, hail, or what have you? "Empires returning to B.C." will be cursed en route. A few days of dry hot weather accompanied by wind will cause many a brow to furrow anxiously.

It is peculiar but understandable, how the vagaries of the weather affects the spirits of Albertans generally. Observe, if you will, the smiling cheerfulness which prevails after a good steady rain. Why even the motorist plowing through sloppy, muddy roads has a grin for all and sundry, whilst at the same time, as in his right, he heartily curses the Government for not keeping them dry and passable.

Contrast that spirit with the one which prevails after a long, dry, hot spell. It is then that tempers are frayed and we become impatient; it is then that we become brusque and short on courtesy.

But after all is said and done, and realizing just how much is at stake, it is not to be wondered at, that our people have developed the habit of observing weather indications, and discussing prospects—and always with the hope that this will be Alberta's year. Well, we hope so.

THE HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

The Home Improvement Plan of the Federal Employment Commission is now in operation.

Designed to permit property owners to improve their properties and at the same time provide work for those in need of it, the objects of the scheme are in every way quite laudable and worthy of approval.

Undoubtedly in the cities and even in some of the smaller urban centres, there will be many who may be in a position to take advantage of the benefits of the scheme, but from a careful perusal of the plan, as we understand it, it offers but little chance to the majority of those who are really most in need of such assistance.

It was reliably reported that last year in this district one contractor had asked to submit offers on the construction of no less than $17,000.00 of work, all of which was immediately cancelled as soon as it became evident that a crop failure was imminent. This work was mostly contemplated by farmers.

It will be conceded at once that farm buildings generally in the district can stand a tremendous amount of improvement and renovation, because in the last few years the man on the land had no money to effect necessary repairs, etc.

Now one of the conditions is that the borrower must be reasonably able to make the regular monthly payments required by the plan. Obviously there are few agriculturists who can meet these conditions, because their incomes are not regular, and are subject to conditions over which they have but little control.

While admitting the splendid features of the plan, it is to be regretted that in its practical application there will be but little chance for the scheme to operate on any really worthwhile scale in Western Canada, because of the limitations imposed by the terms of the plan itself.

RAILWAY STRIKE AVERTED

Regardless of the merits or demerits of the proposed strike of railway employees in Canada, it will be felt that nothing short of a national calamity has been avoided.

It is reported that the men were practically 100% in favor of striking unless their demands were met. The Railways had accepted the recommendation made by the majority sitting on the Board of Conciliation, which was not acceptable to the runaway trades.

In this situation, a strike, sudden and severe seemed imminent, and the position, deadlocked. But it was then that Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labour in the Federal Government took a hand in the game, with obvious success.

He called together the heads of the Railways and the representatives of the men, and whatever may have been his modus operandi, it was successful and both sides apparently were satisfied with the final outcome.

Presently there is an epidemic of strikes prevailing the United States, the most fashionable of which seem to be those of the sit-down variety. We hope it will not prove contagious, but that if it does, the Minister of Labour will have as much success in the future as he had in the case of the Railway dispute, for which he is entitled to a great deal more credit than he has received, so far as the hands of the Press in particular and from the people of Canada as a whole.

THE CRUSADE OF YOUTH

Second Canadian Congress to be held in Montreal, May 22, 23 and 24

By R. D. Jamieson, Calgary Youth Council

What happened in Ottawa in May 1936, is still news. When 456 youth people met in conference, as delegates representing 14,000 of "real fellows, it is news at the time; but when they agree on a definite program it is news for all time. This was the Ottawa Youth Congress where a chapter in history.

Those on the sidelines were dubious that youth would succeed where age has failed, yet they did succeed. Despite inexperience and its attendant companions, they were all wholeheartedly for the Declaration of Rights and the Youth Act—and what is more important they united in Defence of Peace. While the world talked, the Youth of Canada took action.

When thirty delegates from this Canadian Congress sailed to Europe to attend the World Youth Congress they took with them this united demand for peace, and found that the Youth of all the world desired peace. Thirty-six nations were represented at this Congress and out of it came one tangible thing—the actual agreement of every member to work for peace. The Congress knew that "Peace" is not enough, just as in times of stress "Patriotism" is not enough to meet the emergency—that we must work, must fight to preserve Peace on the face of this world of ours.

Now that the first Canadian Youth Congress has passed, and in passing has left a brand that burns throughout the land—in the twenty-five youth councils that are affiliating all local organizations to their cause, the second Congress is planned.

On the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of May, 1937, in Montreal the delegates will assemble young men and women from points as far distant as the cities of Halifax and Vancouver, where they will again be ready to face their clubs with a program all mapped out. They will have news of the Youth Act and how it fares in the House of Parliament, and contacts with new and different worlds to bring with them.

It is particularly necessary that farm youth be out in full force, and each little country town, if unable to send a delegate, should form a council and communicate with the Movement in Calgary at 52 Union Building, so that they may have a share in sending farm youth to Montreal.

The farm is the broad pedestal on which the Western Provinces rest, and their youth must have their say. They have policies and ideas that should go into the melting pot of opinions at Montreal in May, and from that pot will come the pure gold of a united program for the youth of our nation.

SCIENCE AIDS GOLF GREENS

At this time of year the impatient golfer is burning and impatiently his clubs and lying to be on the course. The greenkeeper notes the steps and begins to prepare himself for another season of abuse and gratuitous advice from unruly members who presume to know better than the new greens and fairways should be treated. Every golf club has a few of these members. The greenkeeper who knows his business pays tribute to these maledictions, regarding them as the least of his misadventures.

The science of green-keeping is complex and profound, demanding knowledge of soils, plants, fertilizers, insecticides, ryanicides, herbicides, fungicides and more besides, while the art finds expression in shaping the contours of greens and approaches and in the construction of physical hazards, such as bunkers and sand traps, which prove pitfalls for the poor player, if it is in the game, and may be anything, perplexing golfer, despite his ball out of the sand, may be reminded remorsefully of a neglected garden where his exertions, without the appropriate, should be applied to better purpose.

TEA IMPORTS INTO CANADA

Canada's January imports of tea aggregated 3,266,099 pounds, a substantial increase. Of the black teas, there were 1,947,099 from India, 993,274 from Ceylon, 31,779 from China, 145,480 from Japan and 13,751 from the Dutch East Indies. Of the green teas, 1,253 pounds came from China, 173,540 from Japan and 300 lbs. from the United States.

COD LIVER OIL FOR PIGS

Pigs may be fed successfully during the winter if conditions and feed are satisfactory. One of the most common difficulties confronting the winter feeder is crimping.

At the Dominion Experimental Station at Scott, Sask., several tests have been made comparing the use of cod liver oil and lard for the purpose of preventing the crimping of pigs in winter. It had been observed that the trouble usually appeared among pigs which had been exposed to very little sunshine. Some of the early tests were conducted with fall pigs which were farrowed in August and allowed to run outside until the cold weather came, with the result that no crimping occurred and practically no difference in gains resulted from the different treatments with or without oil. The following year, fall pigs were confined to buildings from which no direct sunshine was received. Soon after weaning, these pigs were divided as evenly as possible by placing pigs from several litters in a pen and weighing each pig individually. The same grain ration was added to each lot.

Cod liver oil was added to the chop for one lot at the rate of one ounce per day per pig, and the second lot received no oil. A third lot was given the same ration of chop with one ounce of lard oil per pig daily. The lot getting no oil showed marked signs of crimping early in December and one pig from this lot died on the 35th day of this test, and 11 days later another was lost from the same lot. The trial was closed on the 31st day when the six remaining pigs were all lame and two required assistance to reach the trough. In the two lots getting oil there was no sign of crimping and the average gain per pig was 108 pounds in the cod liver oil lot and 104 pounds in the lard oil lot.

On the basis of the six remaining pigs in the lot which received no oil, these oils, practically equal in value, can be purchased for about 11¢ per pound, but the lard oil is usually a little cheaper.

Both oils leave an undesirable fishy taste in the pork unless discontinued about six weeks before marketing or killing for pork. This may be done even in mid-winter without danger of crimping if the oil has been fed for some time previously.

The crimped pigs which had not received any oil were given oil at the rate of one ounce per pig per day after the test was completed. No further deaths occurred and all the pigs recovered from their lameness in a short time and were eventually marketed, although some joints were still crooked.

In the matter of faith, we have the aid of hope to that of reason in the convictions which ye sustain relating to a future state.—Chaplin.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

MASTOIDITIS—WHAT IS IT?

The mastoid bone—the bone behind the ear—is filled with a complex system of cells. These cells communicate with a short, wide passage with the middle ear space, i.e., the space inside the ear drum. The middle ear space in turn communicates with the upper part of the throat by a long narrow tube. All these parts are lined with mucous membranes.

It can be readily understood how inflammation can creep up this tube to the middle ear and mastoid cells. Inflamed these walls, and if the tube tissue to mucous membranes, fluids are given off and pus forms. The tube is closed by its swollen mucous membrane lining and the fluid and pus formed in the middle ear and mastoid cells cannot escape into the throat. The pressure, however, comes very irritating in these parts causing extreme earache. These parts must give way, and the drum being the weakest wall of these cavities, bursts if not lanced. This allows the accumulated fluids and pus to drain away, the pain is relieved, the temperature subsides and the patient is soon on the road to recovery.

But sometimes drainage through the hole in the drum is not sufficient. The emptying of the mastoid cells becomes impeded and the pressure in the bone rises. Pain then returns the bone becomes tender and swelling may appear over it. Increasing pressure in the mastoid cells destroys its outer shell. Nature is trying hard to provide drainage for the infection within the bone. If the mastoid bone is now drained, i.e., if the mastoid operation is performed, healing should be rapid and complete. Provided the operation is properly executed and done when the disease is sufficiently localized complications should practically never occur.

Sometimes, if the outer wall of the bone is thick and hard, the inner shell will be destroyed, and if the bone is not sufficiently drained, meningitis or brain abscess may result.

Often the drainage through the drum while not sufficient for a rapid cure of the disease, is enough to prevent rapid outward or inward spread of inflammation. The disease in the bone may linger on with grave risk of spreading to vital structures. The patient may seem perfectly well with the exception of the discharging from the ear. Any ear that has been discharging for three or four weeks should be examined to ascertain if disease remains in the mastoid bone. Neglect of proper surgical treatment at this time may lead to a chronic discharging ear with discharging ear never present threat of fatal complications.

THE VITAMINS

One pound of vitamin B is enough to supply the needs of one person for 1,200 years, but if you don't get your tiny bit every day you will die in a few weeks. The vitamins are not drugs; they are foods, and we all need plenty of them. A good all-around diet, properly cooked, should give healthy adults enough of all of the vitamins. Children and infants, however, need some extra vitamin D and to get it they should be given cod liver oil in some form during the winter.

We need milk, butter, cheese, green vegetables, carrots, and liver, for vitamin A. We need whole wheat flour, oatmeal, liver, heart and kidney for vitamin B. Yeast and wheat germ are especially rich in this vitamin. We need oranges, lemons, tomatoes, lettuce, celery and other fresh fruits and vegetables to provide vitamin C. Ordinary foods contain very little of any vitamin D. In the summer-time the sun makes this vitamin for us free when it shines on our skins but in the winter time many children need to get it in some other form which, fortunately, is obtainable in Cod Liver Oil and some other oils.

If we eat such poor meals that any of these vitamins is missing completely, we may get various diseases, such as scurvy from lack of vitamin C, and rickets from vitamin D. If we eat too small amounts of these vitamins we are apt to suffer from lack of energy, and we are more liable to get infections and to suffer more severely from them.

A well balanced diet requires milk, meat, eggs, fruit and vegetables. The young child may require to supplement this in the winter months with some cod liver oil.

BARLEY VARIETIES

At this season of the year farmers deciding on what crop and variety will be grown in 1937. The National Barley Committee wishes to draw attention to the fact that according to Circular No. 65 of the Dominion Commissioners, that only O.A.C. No. 31, Marquis, Marquis 60, 61 (Chinese), Manchurian, G-tons, and Peatland are the only six row varieties that will be admitted to the marketing grades, i.e., No. 1, No. 2, No. 3 Extra C.W. Six-row. While for feeding purposes the new smooth awn sorts, i.e., Regal, Alsatian, No. 28 and several others of desirable type cannot be graded as marketing. These may be graded into No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 Extra C.W. No. 1, but brings no higher price than No. 3 C.W. barley, the best feed grain.

This advertisement is not inserted by the Alberta Liquor Control Board, or by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

This was not photographed in the wilderness but on a table top in the home of an amateur photographer. The "lake" is a mirror.

ALMOST every motion picture goes through the Hollywood studios are continually fooling us these days with accurate photographs in miniature, such as a village street, a castle in Spain, a rural winter snow scene, a ship at sea, an airplane wreck and what not else. So cleverly are these miniature sets designed and photographed that in the picture their lack of reality defies detection, and when we are let in on the secret, we do not mind at all. Indeed we admire the achievement.

Have you ever tried creating miniature scenes yourself and photographing them with your own camera? It's fun. Depending upon your skill, artistic ability and the materials you employ, you may construct and photograph miniature sets in your own home that will rival the semblance of reality achieved in Hollywood; or, if you prefer, you may create scenes of comedy, tragedy or burlesque to compare with a "shot" in an amateur cartoon.

For a "still camera," this is really nothing else than table-top photography, such as has long been practiced by amateurs, but which now is photographically made up of the amateur than it used to be, because of the recent introduction of toys and more powerful lighting. Photography you can very cheaply with two or three of these brighter house flood light bulbs rivalling the lighting equipment of Hollywood studios and, what is more, to good work with an inexpensive studio camera, provided you see a portrait attachment to secure the necessary close-up focus.
